

Natalie Githuku-Manga

Co-Author of the double volume coffee table book “NAIROBI”

Human Capital Consultant

Director Footprints Press

As a believer that Africans must tell their own stories, Natalie is a published author, with her first co-authored publication “NAIROBI”, a double volume coffee table book devoted to the metropolis capital city. She is the executive producer of the recently established FP Films, and the host of ‘The Edition Interviews’; a career contemporary segment that seeks to gain leadership, management and life wisdom from the heretics in the professional sphere in East Africa.

By profession, Natalie is a Management Consultant specializing in Human Capital Management and Organisational Change Management. Natalie has gained progressive experience in leading organisations including Deloitte East Africa, Safaricom, the Coca Cola Company as well as the boutique family owned consulting company Human Performance Dynamics Africa.

Natalie is a trained Development Economist, with a Master of Science in Local Economic Development from the London School of Economics and Political Science (LSE), a Bachelor of Science degree in Economics from the University of Nottingham and a certificate in the Practice of Social Entrepreneurship from the Amani Institute. She is a member of the Global Shapers Nairobi Hub, an initiative of the World Economic Forum (WEF) and is a mentor at SHofCo (Shining Hope for Communities).
